At Mckenzie College, we are committed to helping students achieve their goals and become remarkable both in their field and in life. By providing opportunities to help elevate their passions and take their creative education to the next level, we have partnered with affiliate institutions to allow students the pathway into a continued education program where they have the option to earn up to a Bachelor's degree. When successfully completing an eligible diploma program at McKenzie College, this gives students the ability to continue their creative learning through the transfer of their acquired diploma credits into a Bachelor of Creative Arts degree with the partnership of Yorkville University. This heightened education path will allow students to fine tune their already developed skill set and prepare them for advanced senior roles within their field of interest. At Yorkville University students are provided with a flexible learning environment allowing the ability to learn on campus or online and creating a balance for additional commitments. Through this degree option students will already be equipped with experience and knowledge from their McKenzie diploma and can utilize this understanding to then elevate their creative passion in a supportive and collaborative environment to earn a Bachelor of Creative Arts Degree in as little as fifteen months.
